WILL STAGE
PROGRAMME AT ALLEN'S

Mandolin Club to Play at Local Theatre.

"McGILL-NITE."

Manager and Musical Director
Delighted with Club's Selections.

Montrealers, within the next couple of weeks, are to be given a rare treat, in the form of a novelty "McGill Nite" which the McGill Mandolin and Banjo Orchestra has agreed to put on at the Allen Theatre Wednesday, Dec. 13th. That this organization should, unassisted, stage a complete programme at one of Montreal's largest and most popular theatres is an event unprecedented in the history of the Club.

The manager of Allen's Theatre and his musical director last night witnessed the greatest practice ever held by the Orchestra. The Club's director was at his best and the boys were with him to the last chord. Several peppy marches were rendered whilst popular music occupied a large part of the time. The conclusion of the "jazz" found the two visitors overflowing with praise for the Club, and it was at once agreed upon that the organization should play at the theatre.

The Club's appeal for more men to turn out, was answered at yesterday's practice, for fully twenty-five men were present. In this connection the executive wish to thank the members for their enthusiasm and to request that they attend equally well the next meeting, to be held on Monday at 7.30 p.m. There are only two more weeks for rehearsals and so it is especially important everyone should turn out.

By taking on the present engagement the Mandolin Club is reviving an old institution. "McGill Nite" was one of the headline attractions at local theatres in past years. The enormity of the present undertaking, however, makes it stand out in the orchestra's history, and if it proves a successful issue the prospects for the future of the club are indeed bright.

UNION CAFETERIA

University Dance Orchestra Entertained "Tea Fiends"

The "Thursday Afternoon Jazz Tea" has met with huge success. Between 4.30 and 5.30 p.m. the Union Cafeteria was a scene of tea drinkers and jazz hounds. That there are a great many devotees of the goddess of Jazz around the University, was certainly fully demonstrated by the turnout yesterday.

During the whole hour the University Dance Orchestra, who seem to be able to make those "noises" which create that longing feeling for more, played constantly. Just as this city, famed orchestra can keep hundreds of flittering feet dancing until the early hours of the morning, so it aroused the appetite and only for the fact that the music ceased at 5.30 many well-meaning students would have gone home with the inner man over-crowded.

The Union House Committee may well be congratulated on their brilliant idea. It seems that they have found the weak spot in most students or something at least, which the students have been craving for. From now on it will be their intentions to furnish this social hour every week at the same time.

From yesterday's turnout one can only judge that many students took the friendly advice which was given to them last week. No doubt many whispered in their professor's ear—"Tea-Cafeteria—University Dance Orchestra."

The committee, who have organized this musical hour, wish to thank the students for their co-operation in making this afternoon's tea such an immense success. They hope that the future "Teas" will be as well patronized and that they may rely on the support of the student body.

"Is Mr. Bibbles at home?" asked a voice over the telephone.

"No," replied Mrs. Bibbles, "but he telephoned a few minutes ago that he was on his way home."

"Then he will arrive shortly, I suppose?"

"Oh, yes, unless somebody stops him on the street and asks him what he thinks of the Eighteenth Amendment."—The Minnesota Daily.

Intercollegiate Series Anticipated with Interest—
U. of M. Team Strong

Great interest in the hockey prospects for the coming season is being evinced in all faculties of the University. In order to give information, especially to the new men at college, and also those already interested, a meeting is slated for today. This will be the first meeting of the season and a large attendance is assured. The meeting will be at the Union, in the dining-room, at 5 p.m. sharp.

The rumor is persistent that Queen's is out to emulate their football record of the past season. As for Varsity, she considers the hockey championship an institution designed principally for herself.

The University of Montreal is a new entry to the Senior Series. They have given indications of their hockey prowess in the past, especially at two exhibition games which they played with McGill last year. McGill must keep a watchful eye upon this new entrant to the series.

The intermediate and junior teams have several matters which must be settled before good ice is available. Permission has been granted for the foundation of a Junior Intercollegiate League in the Province of Quebec. The advisability of this new departure will be among the matters to be discussed at the meeting today.

Everyone who plays hockey is urged to attend today's meeting. For those who win positions on the teams not only will they have their regular schedules to play, but an opportunity to play in some of the large American cities during the holidays. Another enticement to play is the fact that several of last year's stars (Continued from Page 1.)

The Union Cafeteria, which has catered so successfully to students in the past, will furnish the most delectable refreshments.

Mrs. Tyndall and Mrs. MacMillan will act as patronesses.

First and Second Years Also Gave Well-Acted Plays.

One of the most successful meetings of the French Society was held yesterday afternoon in the Common Room of the R.V.C., when five short plays were given by students in the different French classes. The large audience of students and friends of the R.V.C. were thoroughly amused by clever acting of all the performers.

The First Year (ordinary course) gave the first play which was entitled "Un Peu d'Idéal." Mme. Marjolain (Helen Talpis) was giving an afternoon tea and her guests, the Misses Secord, Duntun, Hird, Audrey and Walsh discussed various questions of the day. The high cost of living, the difficulty of finding an apartment, etc. were all "épouvantable." Although the tea was supposed to be a literary affair, all the guests melted away at the threat of a poet to recite one of his own "épouvantable" poems.

Mlle Angelina Philomene Dupont (Miss Ransom) and the other members of First Year Advanced French, showed us a new solution of the servant problem in "La Servante Mécanique." The maids that answered Mlle Angelina's advertisement demanded limousines, gramophones and $40 per month. The mechanical servant, sent home from Goodwin's, wrapped in brown paper, seemed to fill all requirements and to have none of the faults of the human variety. But after this efficient dummy had dusted the telephone off the table, broken a plate and scared her poor mistress to death she did not seem quite so desirable. This clever play was written by Miss Martin, who played the part of the "Servante Mécanique."

The Second Year Ordinary represented the meeting of M. Perrichon and his family with Horace and his wife.

MARITIME-WESTERN DANCE ON DEC. 12

Venetian Gardens Have Been Engaged.

At a meeting of the combined executives of the Maritime and Western Clubs, held on Wednesday night, it was unanimously decided to hold the annual Maritime-Western dance at the Venetian Gardens. It was previously decided by each club individually that the dance should be held before Christmas. Application was then made for the use of the Union Ballroom, but as it was found impossible to grant a date before Christmas, the Venetian Gardens was chosen.

As in former years this dance will be informal, and it is hoped that every Maritimer and every Westerner will seize this rare opportunity of meeting his friends from the opposite coasts among the delightful surroundings of the Venetian Gardens. In view of the large number expected to attend, the Venetian has been reserved for Tuesday evening, December 12th, and, in order to ensure that every member may attend, a special price of $2.50 a couple has been agreed upon.

Tickets will be available on Monday morning, and may be obtained by Club members from any member of the two executives. It is therefore hoped that all those who have not already paid their fees will do so when buying their tickets.

CORRECTION.

It was erroneously stated in yesterday's Daily that Queen's was bringing a judge with them to the debate on Saturday night. They wrote the Delta Sigma Society, requesting that Dr. Cyrus Macmillan be asked to represent them on the committee of judges, and he has very kindly consented to act. Dr. Stephen Leacock is the judge representing McGill, while Dr. Helen Y. Read is the neutral judge of the three.

SECTIONAL CLUBS.

Sectionalism, in itself, has never been advocated in these columns; however, there appears to be one side of this tendency that is gaining considerable prominence about the Campus, and at the same time deserves the support that it is receiving. We have reference here to Sectional Clubs, which are continuing, contrary to certain opinions, to maintain their positions in college life. There can be little doubt that they serve a definite purpose at the University, and that they hold a rightful place in the activities about McGill. The plea that they work to dissipate interest in college affairs is an old but fallacious argument; time devoted to the Sectional Club by the average undergraduate is small in comparison to that he spends upon other matters around the University.

The very nature of the club prohibits its encroachment upon the time of any student to any considerable extent; meetings are seldom, if ever, called more frequently than once every two weeks, and when in progress occupy a limited period, very often taking place over the supper table, where the opportunities for discourse, business and satisfaction of the "inner man" are combined. Particularly ought the sectional club to be a factor in the life of the Freshman, who, immediately upon his arrival in new surroundings begins to feel the oppression of such, and the lack of the congeniality of the circle he has left behind him. If there is some means by which he can establish connections with those who have something in common with him, and who are willing to aid him in settling in his new surroundings, the load is effectively lightened. It is for this service that they may so ably render, and which most of them do render, that Sectional Clubs merit approbation in their endeavours. If they fail in this duty, justification for their existence will not find such firm footing in the social relations which they may seek to foster between men and from the same districts at a later period in the college course.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The system inaugurated this year of Inter-Class and Inter-Faculty debates, seems so far to be fulfilling its object, that of bringing out the best talent in the University by means of these lesser meetings, and thus supplying new material for the Intercollegiate debating team, as well as training a great number of men in the principles of public speaking, who otherwise would have little opportunity of cultivating a sense of confidence when addressing a number of people. The interfaculty debates which are to take place next week should prove interesting and will be an indication of the material from which the University team should be drawn.

The meeting of the Hockey Club called for this afternoon is the first definite indication that winter is here. Fall sports are over for another year, and the students are settling down to the routine of study in preparation for the January examinations; but that study is not to occupy all their time is fortunately evidenced by such activities as the Hockey Club, the Ski and Snowshoe Club, and the Boxing, Wrestling and Fencing.

AMERICANS HOLD BANQUET AT QUEENS

Spirit of Thanksgiving Very Evident.

Amidst a general atmosphere of Americanism the members of the McGill American Club held their annual Thanksgiving dinner last night at the Queen's Hotel. A general spirit of pep existed throughout the evening. The eats were of the true American style, including the good old turkey and cranberry sauce. In the U.S.A. Thanksgiving is an occasion of great importance as a festival, dinners being the method of expressing their thankfulness for the many privileges they enjoy, and last night's affair was an example of one of these good old feasts, in the spirit of good-fellowship and informality that predominated throughout the evening. President Donald Tinkens commenced the speaking of the evening by proposing a toast to the "King and the President," during which he mentioned that an American Thanksgiving dinner was an occasion on which all Americans gave thanks for the great progress their nation had made since its birth, the toast was responded to with great enthusiasm. The Honorary President, Professor Lloyd, was then called upon by the President to speak. He said that although a Canadian citizen, being a Welshman by birth, later an American citizen, and now a Canadian, that he was very interested in America, and Americans in general, and was indeed honored to attend the banquet. He stated that he wished he had the powers of the greatest of orators to express the necessity of there being friendliness and understanding between the English-speaking countries of the world, namely, Canada, United States and Great Britain, that conditions pointed towards great international tangles in the future, and that it were best for them that these nations stick together. The President then called upon Dean Laing to give an address. Dean Laing gave a very amusing and interesting talk, telling the club members some humorous stories that were greatly appreciated by all; he pointed out how some came to a banquet looking very pessimistic and sad, and how they seemed to live up as the affair progressed. He gave a humorous account of a Thanksgiving dinner he attended some years ago in Italy, of the comical way that the proprietor thought it should be served. He also cited several reasons why they should be thankful, among which was the advantages they were receiving by getting a higher education in a foreign country, where they learn to understand the customs and train of thought of the people of that country. This would do a great deal to bring about friendly relations in the future. Prof. Simpson also gave an entertaining address. A few others were called upon by the President and they responded in a very able manner. After the speeches were over the dinner took on an even more informal aspect and jokes were told by various members, among whom Gerald Barry deserves special mention. The evening closed with the singing of Alma Mater, followed by the McGill yell.

Travelling salesman comes out of a restaurant and seeing Englishman looking at lobsters in the window, slaps him on the back and says: "Better eat in there old chap, I sure got a kick out of my last meal." Englishman: "Yeah! What you hawvy?" Salesman: "Frog legs."

DENTS ARE OUTCLASSED BY MEDS '25

Dentistry Freshmen Lose by 18-1 Score.

MEDS. HIT WELL.

Henry Shows Great Form in Box for Medicals.

Meds. '25 completely outclassed Dents. '26 in a baseball game at the Baron Byng School last night by an 18-1 score. The score indicates fairly well the margin of superiority held by the Meds. Coupled with their ability to connect successfully, they displayed a brand of fielding which, though it could not be said to be airtight, was much in advance of the Dents. In Henry, the Meds. have one of the most effective tossers in the University. He held the Dents. almost hitless, and in the last inning fanned three in quick succession.

The Dents, squeezed in their lone run in the first inning, but after that Henry tightened up and seldom let a man reach third.

Meds. won the toss, and let the Dents. have their first bat. Dents. squeezed over their one and only run, but threw away their chance for another when, with a man on third, Schaffer struck out on one of Rogers' slow balls.

The last half of the inning was full of incident, if not of good baseball. The first Med. to bat made the initial sack in safety, when Finkelstein, the Dent. pitcher, made a wild throw to first. Lanthier was called out while running from second base to third, when Altner's fly hit him in the back. A momentary rest was given the players when Forrest's foul fly struck between one of the girders and the ceiling, and the javelin experts tested their aim in attempts to dislodge it. On the resumption of play, Finkelstein caught an easy fly and retired the side. Meds. scored three runs in this inning.

In the second, Henry walked Carney for the first pass of the game, but fanned Thompson with two men on bases, and prevented a Dent. score. In their half of this inning the Meds. held a batting orgy and shoved seven runs across the plate before anyone was put out. Thompson showed some snappy fielding at shortstop, but his work was counteracted by O'Mara's errors at first base. Finkelstein walked two in this inning, and in the third retired in favour of Thompson. Thompson fared slightly better, and was enabled to hold the Meds. to one run in this inning, when Referee McCullough called Altner out on a close decision at third. Henry retired the Dents. in quick succession in the fourth, and Meds. repeated their performance of the second inning by scoring seven more runs in their half. A wild throw from Forrest to O'Mara was responsible for two of these tallies. Wight knocked a three bagger for the longest hit of the game.

Henry used great judgment in his offerings in the fifth, and retired the side without a hit when Finkelstein, the last man up, swung wildly at an easy lob.

Although the Dents. were woefully weak in the slugging department, Orr and Thompson displayed some smart fielding. Umpire "Lux" McCullough was called on for only one close decision, and gave satisfaction to both sides.

The line-ups were:

Med. '26.	Catcher.	Dent. '26.

Henry	Finkelstein

Lanthier	Schaffer
Altner	Thompson

CAN YOU EAT SPAGHETTI OR DO YOU WEAR A DRESS SUIT, TOO?

Can you answer these five questions?
1.—The lights are out, the folks have gone to bed, is there any excuse for her not asking him in?
2.—When a man is sitting on a settee with two ladies, should he talk between them or hold one on each knee?
3.—In ejecting olive stones from the epiglottis, should you use your fingers or a fork? A man did this once, and the nurses were shocked.
4.—When introduced to a lady, should you hold hands or embrace her that evening or wait till the lady offers hers.
5.—When entering a restaurant, should you introduce your co-ed to the head waiter before letting him escort her to the table?

Many a noon hour at the cafeteria has been spoiled on account of ignorance of a few simple rules as to what is done in the best line-ups.

TORONTO STILL TO BE "VARSITY"

How About Univ. de Montreal?

Is the University of Toronto still to retain the appellation of 'Varsity' as applied exclusively to their teams? When the short contraction for the word 'university' was first applied to them to distinguish them from the other teams in the Queen City, it was used in common with the same term for the other college teams but, as both McGill and Queen's were easily distinguished by their proper names, the Toronto college began to be widely known by the name Varsity alone.

Now the University of Montreal steps into the limelight in intercollegiate athletics and a query arises concerning a short and proper appellation for that team. Surely they are as much entitled to the use of the contraction as are their rivals in Toronto and yet the latter college will not part easily with the name. The question will not be likely to arise until the two teams meet, and then the sporting scribes will be in a bad way to easily distinguish them in the reports that are sent out about the games.

It is not unlikely that the word Varsity will have to be discarded entirely as a term applying especially to one or other of the colleges and the students will have to go in search of some new catchword by which the sporting fraternity will be able to distinguish them easily without using the long term that properly designates the colleges from which the teams come.

SENIOR WATER POLO GAME NEXT TUESDAY

The McGill Senior Water Polo team are continuing to show great enthusiasm in the practices held lately and good hopes are being entertained for a successful outcome of the coming activities in their favor. The practice was well conducted and it was announced that a game with the M.S.C. would be held next Tuesday in the M.A.A.A. tank. If the Seniors win this game they will capture the senior championship with the Golden Cup, which is now in the possession of the M.A.A.A.

At the practice last night the men went through a good deal of swimming in the form of the breast and back stroke. Punting was also a feature of the practice and good speed was displayed by all the men engaged. The intermediates gave the seniors very good competition most of the time.

PROSPECTS FOR COMING HOCKEY SEASON BRIGHT

have left the university, and there is room for new material to make good.

Another meeting is being called for Monday afternoon to draw up the schedule for inter-class hockey. Some years have not yet elected their hockey representatives. If all the classes are not represented early in the year, when the schedule is announced they will have no opportunity for criticism if hours do not suit the respective years.

Today at 5 p.m. a meeting for all interested in hockey. The meeting on Monday at 5 p.m. for class representatives.

McGill's prospects for this season look fairly bright. Coach Shaughnessy, when questioned last night, said that he thought there would be ample material from which to pick a team. Of last year's senior team, Flanagan, Dempsey, McGerrigle are expected out, while there are a host of new men and members of last year's intermediate teams who will make bids for positions. For the position of goal, Moran, Timmins and Norris, of Alberta, are expected out, while other men on the squad will be Morrison, McNaughton, Sid Dawes, Wise, Munro and Choquet, of Ottawa. There are also many other men who will be trying for places on the teams, who are expected at today's meeting. It can be seen, therefore, that although early in the season for predictions, it is sure that McGill will have a very strong sextette.

WATCH THE CORNERS

When you wake up in the morning of a chill and cheerless day, And feel inclined to grumble, pout or frown, Just glance into your mirror and you will quickly see

It's just because the corners of your mouth turn down.

Then take this simple rhyme, Remember it in time:

It's always dreary weather, in country-side or town, When you wake and find the corners of your mouth turned down.

If you wake up in the morning full of bright and happy thoughts, And begin to count the blessings in your cup,

Then glance into your mirror and you will quickly see

It's all because the corners of your mouth turn up.

Then take this little rhyme, Remember all the time:

There's joy a-plenty in this world to fill life's silver cup

If you'll only keep the corners of your mouth turned up.

R.V.C.A.A. DECIDES DEBATABLE POINT

Favor Graduates Playing in Intercollegiate Athletics.

By a vote of a meeting of the R.V.C.A.A. Athletic Association, held yesterday, it was decided that graduates are eligible for college women's athletics. The meeting was called for the purpose of deciding this question and also for authorizing Miss W. Russell and Miss Cartwright to draw up and sign a new Intercollegiate Basketball Constitution.

At a meeting held Wednesday a motion was made that graduates should not be permitted to play on college teams, but this was rescinded, and the point opened for discussion. It was suggested that the Vice-President take the President's place in the chair and that the latter give her own views on the question. The President, Miss Slack, made a motion that the original clause in the Constitution be left unchanged, i.e., that graduates be permitted to play on college teams, and also that a written vote on this question be taken at the end of the meeting.

There was a great deal of discussion on this, but at the end of the meeting the motion was carried by a large majority, there being 66 votes in favor of and 24 votes against, the eligibility of graduates to play in college athletics.

FRESHIES' LAMENT.

Oh sophomores, juniors and seniors, Just hear with me while I relate The harrowing trials of a Freshie, With a HAM AND—a chair, and a plate.

When he first came to town he was eating At places that were not so worse, Such as "The Palais, Ritz and Windsor, Yet a little too steep for his purse.

Down, down through the long list of cafes,

He descended by easy bits, And as the month drew to its ending, He at last sought the one armed Ritz.

His sides were heaving with hunger, As he timidly opened the door, For although he had looked through the window, He had never been in one before.

A check was shoved at him while passing The bob-haired cashier in her cage, He was not a reader of faces, But there was no doubt of her age.

A struggling mob lay before him, He thought there at least was a fight, But next he discovered the counter, About which the crowd was so tight.

He finally wedged himself inward, Heeded not the protesting screams, And pleaded the haggard hash-slinger To slide him a plate of beans.

He turned to make off with his coffee, "TOAST AND—yet he had not the knack,

A quick, snappy, jolt on his elbow Sent his coffee down some poor man's back.

I'll admit that this dampened his ardour, Yet he with persistence and care, Completed the hazardous voyage, And sank with relief on a chair.

Next to him sat a fat butcher, With blood stains profuse on his coat, In his hands he gripped an egg sandwich, How to eat it, our Freshie made note.

With a snap, his jaws closed on the sandwich,

Alas it was not cooked enough, Yolk shot out each side like a fountain, And reposed on his leg and his cuff.

His face was blacker than thunder, As he scraped the goo from his leg, And it was simply atrocious, The language he used on that egg.

Our Freshie, not accustomed to gulping, Started chewing the beans one by one, Not knowing this practice was dangerous, With a crash he shattered a stone.

To sweeten the remains of his coffee, Some sugar, he went to procure, In his absence along came the waiter, His coffee went down the sewer.

Protestations availed him nothing, So he paid up his bill like a man, He again sought the crowd on St. Catherine, Back where this story began.

VERSE ONE.

The evening was balmy and zephyr, The moon was as bright as could be. She said, "Dear, how can I thank you For this diamond you've given me!" She paused then for a moment And continued with a sigh, "No one in this wide, wide, world Could trust you more than I."

VERSE TWO.

He said, "You the wrong, my dear, There is one who trusts me more, And he's the guy who sold that ring, The guy in the jewelry store."

THINGS TO WORRY OVER

It has been rumoured that one of the chief causes of Mr. Winston Churchill's withdrawal from active political life is the fact that he was defeated in the late elections.

PROF. SAYS STUDENTS LACK IN THRIFT

"Thrift is something that college students lack," declares Prof. N. J. Silberling, of the economics department of the University of California.

"I notice a great deal of thoughtless expenditure; the pleasure of the moment only is considered; too much money is spent for 'frills' and not enough for worthwhile things. Think of the benefit and pleasure a student might gain by accumulating a library; but how many students would devote time and money to such a pursuit?"

On the other hand, there are certain students who are compelled to save in order to put themselves through college. More thrift is a forced habit, and indicates a persistence to be admired.

"In contrast to this type, there is the obnoxious student who has as much to spend as anybody else, and yet plays the part of a social sponge, while his own capital remains untouched. Another example of false thrift is that of the man who invents a hundred pathetic ways of living within an inadequate income instead of planning one effective way of increasing his income to suit his needs. Such a man is not to be admired for thrift, because he shows stupidity, and little initiative.

"For spending money carelessly, college students are not to be blamed. All young people are thrifless to a certain extent for they lack the incentive to be otherwise. However, I believe that a college student should be allowed a little leeway in money matters," he concludes, "since there are so many activities in college life in which the wide-awake student ought to take part."

We note the aesthetic tastes of the Yellow Taxi Co., which sprinkles the following couplet over its stationary ads and cabs:

"The choosing fellow
"Calls a Yellow."

McGILL ASKED TO JOIN THE RIFLE LEAGUE

Many Famous Colleges Already Belong

ANNUAL SHOOT

International Competition Is Planned

A letter was received Tuesday, inviting McGill to join the Intercollegiate Rifle League, which is composed of clubs from many noted Universities. The text of the letter and the invitation are as follows:—

The Editor

McGill Daily:

Sir,—The accompanying article was written by Chauncey P. Williams, Vice-President of the Intercollegiate Rifle League, and Captain of this year's Yale Rifle team. At his request I am sending it to every collegiate publication in the United States and Canada, with the request that you make use of the material in such a way as to procure greater interest in small bore rifle shooting in your institution, and to have your college represented in the league.

Your interest in the publication of this will be appreciated, and when the article appears I would welcome a copy of the paper.

Sincerely yours,
PETER P. CARNEY.

P.O. Box 906,

New Haven, Conn.

Since the close of the great war small-bore rifle shooting has become a prominent minor sport in many of the American and Canadian colleges and universities. Over fifty institutions have affiliated themselves with the National Rifle Association, and have participated in its annual intercollegiate matches, and in addition many of the college teams have carried heavy schedules of dual meets, in which conspicuous records have been made.

Among the more prominent competitors in last season's shooting were the University of Pennsylvania, winners of the National Rifle Association's Intercollegiate match for 1922; Norwich University, which has been producing teams of championship calibre for the past five years; Yale, which won eighteen of its twenty dual matches, and decisively defeated Oxford and McGill in international shoots; Dartmouth, Princeton, Georgetown, M. I. T., Drexel Institute of Philadelphia, Iowa State, the University of Washington and the University of California. Many other institutions, small as well as large, made creditable records, for rifle shooting as a sport in which the small colleges have equal opportunities with the "big fellows," and often furnish unexpected upsets.

Rifle shooting is unique in being the only college sport in which it is unnecessary for the opposing teams to meet on the same field. As the bulk of the shooting is done on indoor ranges, weather conditions may be neglected, and the match can be carried on with each team shooting on its home range, and exchanging scores by telegraph. Thus it is possible to carry on intercollegiate matches without the expense of travel to a common meeting place, so that the schedule of an Eastern college rifle team may throw it into competition not only with Harvard, Princeton, Dartmouth and Cornell, with whom the University competes in many of its major and minor sports, but also Alabama Polytechnic, Iowa State University, the University of Washington, McGill University, and Oxford University. With the latter, Yale holds an annual match conducted with the help of the trans-Atlantic cables. Of course, under such conditions controversies and close decisions on scoring frequently arise, and in these the headquarters of the National Rifle Association at Washington is looked to as the final arbiter. However, during the last two years the need has been felt of a distinctive college organization for standardizing intercollegiate shooting conditions, with the result that in the spring of 1921 the Princeton, Yale and Columbia managements met to form an intercollegiate Association of Affiliated Rifle Clubs, open for membership to all college rifle clubs affiliated with the National Rifle Association. During the season of 1922 its membership included fourteen colleges and universities: Columbia, Bowdoin, Cornell, Dartmouth,

Besides the standardization of conditions for college dual meets, the Association has an important function in the ranking of the college teams and of their individual shooters, and for this purpose it has planned for the coming season an Association match to supplement the National Rifle Association Intercollegiate, open only to members of the Intercollegiate Association. This match will be fired in three fortnightly stages through February and March, and will include firing in all positions. Appropriate trophies will be awarded by the Association to the winning team, and to the highest ranking individual shooter, and on the basis of the scores made in this match an official ranking list of the affiliated teams and of the individual team-members will be made up and published at the end of the season. This individual rating will serve as the equivalent of All-American selections in football. In coming years it is planned to extend the activities of the Association to conducting an annual match between American and English all-collegiate teams, and to sending an all-collegiate team to compete in the National matches at Camp Perry, Ohio.

It is hoped that the coming year will see large increases in the membership of the Association, so that it may be made to include all the college rifle clubs affiliated with the National Association. The officers for the season of 1922-23 are: President, Colonel William Libbey, of Princeton, director and former President of the National Rifle Association; Vice-President, Chauncey P. Williams, Jr., captain of the Yale University Rifle Team for 1923; Secretary and Treasurer, A. P. Williams, of the University of Pennsylvania. The Executive Committee includes, in addition to these officers, representatives from the universities of Pennsylvania and California. Applications for membership in the Association should be sent to the Secretary, A. P. Williams, University of Pennsylvania, 3305 Walnut St., Philadelphia, accompanied by the enrollment fee and season's dues of ten dollars for each affiliating college club.

AT THE THEATRES

IMPERIAL.

Higgins and Bates, at the Imperial next week, dance. Until recently they have been dancing with Harry Carroll Varieties, but now Higgins and Bates are features by themselves. These two girls are among the most attractive of the feminine following of terpsichore. Wherever dancing is liked they are liked. They have been in vaudeville and in musical comedy. They have tripped the light fantastic every step up the ladder until they have now arrived at that goal of vaudeville distinction, an act of their own. Horace Bentley presides at the piano for their singing and dancing. Polly Lou Dee, with Jack King and Roy Harvey, offer a musical treat with fine singing and instrumental music. Jack Osterman is the newest and probably the youngest of vaudeville singles and many people believe he is among the best. He combines the irresistibility of youth and inherited ability and an exceedingly pleasing personality, with a bright sparkling line of stories and songs. Johnny Ross and Ruth Roma will be presented in a comedy act entitled "That's a Fake." If you want fun, you won't have to look any further than Pat Barrett and Nora Cunneen. Their skit is called "Looking for Fun," and it contains an abundance of fun. Mr. Barrett is a splendid young character comedian, impersonating a sporty old countryman, while Miss Cunneen depicts the role of a sweet young lady who knows just how to handle "wise guys." Completing the vaudeville portion of the bill are Powell and Brown in "Sunsand". The pictures they make with various colored sand are just as effective as though they were done in oils and water colors. Shirley Mason's latest photoplay, "Youth Must Have Love" is based on the story of a young man unjustly accused of the murder of an old miser and of how he is vindicated through the never failing faith and untiring aid of the girl. It is a romance of hearts and sweet hearts.

NEXT SESSION OF MOCK PARLIAMENT

Dec. 14th, With Constitutional Party in Power.

The next session of the Mock Parliament, at which the Constitutional Party under the leadership of Victorian Barre as Prime Minister, will come into power, will be held on December 14th, in the Union. The former premier, R. K. Jones, and his Cabinet, presided at the conclusion of the last session, when the government was defeated in the House by a vote of 148 to 139, and the Governor-General has called on Barre as the leader of the Constitutional Party to form a cabinet, which is at present being done. The personnel of the new Government is shrouded in secrecy, although it is expected that in the course of a few days it will be announced. Meanwhile the late government supporters are reorganizing their forces and are confident of reversing the tables at the next session. Certain it is that unless there is a sweeping change in public sentiment before the 14th, the government will have a hard fight to retain office. The extremely close vote at the last session, and the large number of members on both sides of the House would all tend to indicate another keenly fought battle at the next meeting.

UPPER YEARS PRESENT BEST SKETCH

Horace and Sabine consider themselves far superior to the Perrichon who come out of a first year text book, while "Horace" is read by Second Year students. Yet Horace finds Henriette Perrichon most attractive and complains to her that Sabine is a most unsympathetic wife. She talks to him in monologues 2 or 3 pages long. M. Perrichon (Miss England) also finds Sabine a relief from "la mauvaise humeur" of his wife. Mme. Perrichon (Edith Baker) finding her husband and her daughter both deep in flirtations, complains that her family will still say that her bad temper is caused by her missing her coffee. Miss James played the part of Sabine, Miss Hill was Henriette and Miss Gurd, Horace.

"Jus à sa toilette" showed us a dandy. Miss Desbarats, who could not decide what coat to wear, his valets, Miss Perrin and Miss Carl, instead of trying to assist their master, delighted in confusing him more and more. The poor man did not know what month it was; one valet said it was August, the other November. This play was given by the Second Year Advanced.

Le dépit Amoureux, by Moliere, was played by students of the Third and Fourth Years. Miss McConnell and her lover, Miss Sharples, have a violent quarrel, give back each other's trinkets and tear up their love letters. The valet and the maid-servant support their master and mistress in this quarrel and are much disconcerted when it is made up with a kiss. The valet, Miss Massy-Bayley, and the maid, Miss Roy, now have a quarrel themselves, and throw away the presents which they have given to each other, even to a bit of cheese. They, too, make up, and go off with their arms around each other.

M. du Roure, who gave the judges' decision, said that while all the plays were excellent, the prize had been given to the Third and Fourth Year play.

Miss Kane, of the McGill Conservatorium, gave two charming French songs. Tea was served at the close of this most enjoyable meeting.

CORRECTION.

In Wednesday's issue of the Daily it was announced that Douglas C. Borden, of Sci. '24, had applied for a Rhodes Scholarship, in one of the provinces other than Quebec. Yesterday it was learned that this was not correct. It is Henry Borden, who graduated from McGill with the class of Arts '21, who has applied for the scholarship offered for the Province of Nova Scotia.

MEDICINE '26 WILL SEND REPRESENTATIVES

At a meeting of Med. '26, held yesterday, the Class elected J. E. Boyle as their hockey representative and manager.

Nominations were called for the Medicine Dinner Committee. W. Abey was declared elected, and it is hoped that a good number of men from Med. '26 will be present at the Annual Dinner of the Medical Undergraduate Society.

A lively discussion followed a suggestion that Med. '26 should be represented at the First Annual Conference of Canadian Students to be held at Toronto Dec. 28th-Jan. 2nd. Finally it was carried by a large majority that a member of the Class should be appointed as a delegate and that the Class should cover the cost by voluntary subscription.

MISS CROSS ON S.C.M. NATIONAL ASSEMBLY

A short meeting of the S.C.A. of R.V.C. was held in the Common Room at the close of the Athletic Association meeting yesterday, for the purpose of electing a representative to the Legislative, which is to meet in Toronto on December 2, to draw up a permanent constitution before the National Conference. Miss Dorothy Cross was chosen to represent R.V.C.

LITTLE WORDS OF ACTION.

I asked if I might kiss her—
I thought she hadn't heard:
I kissed her, then I asked her—
She answered . . . not a word.

Teacher—Can anyone tell me what is the highest form of animal life?

Smart Youngster—The giraffe!
Mrs. Higgins (to policeman on duty)—Ere, young man, where shall I get the 'Oxton tram?

Policeman (seeing tram approaching)—In your back if you don't look out.

"Daughter, did I not see you sitting on that young man's lap when I passed the parlor door last evening?"
"Yes, but it was very embarrassing. I wish you had not told me to."

"Good heavens! I never told you to do anything of the kind!"
"You did. You told me that if he attempted to get sentimental I must sit on him."—Pathfinder
